Message from our President

Wow! What a fantastic victory for women candidates on November 6, 2012. I want to highlight some of these victories beginning with the record number (100) of women elected to the United States Congress. The Senate has an all-time high number of women with 20.

In the Senate the newly elected women include Elizabeth Warren, Tammy Baldwin, and Mazie Hirono, who all are the first female Senators from their states. Tammy Baldwin is the first openly lesbian member, and Mazie Hirono is the first Asian-American woman in the Senate.

The House of Representatives will also have a record number (80) of women in the 113th Congress. Some of the new Congresswomen include Tulsi Gabbard and Tammy Duckworth, who have military combat experience, and two women under the age of 40: Tulsi Gabbard and Grace Meng. Gabbard will also be the first Hindu elected to Congress.

The State of New Hampshire elected the first ever all-women delegation, choosing a woman Governor, and two women Representatives joining the two women Senate incumbents.

But closer to home, our own member, Mitzi Henderson, is overjoyed to report that her daughter, Elizabeth Esty, won her election to the House of Representatives from the 5th House District of Connecticut. We rejoice with Mitzi, Elizabeth and their family.

There is much work yet to be done, but let us celebrate this wonderful year by attending our Winter Luncheon at the lovely Garden Court Hotel on Tuesday, December 11. I hope to see you there.

Mary Alice Thornton

P. S. You voted in November. If you want your voice heard in 2013, come to LWVPA's Program Planning meeting on Saturday, January 26. It is the start of the grassroots process, and the place for each of us to make our opinions heard. See the front page for the details.

Have a wonderful holiday season!

Coming in May: LWVC Convention close to home!

Held in May in odd-numbered years, the LWVC Convention will be in Santa Clara County in 2013 at a wonderful, intimate location: the Hayes Mansion in San Jose. This becomes a special opportunity for Palo Alto League members. With only a short drive south, you can watch the League in action, hear inspiring speakers and help make it all happen.

Have you ever been to San Jose's stunning Hayes Mansion? I hadn't, until Mary Jo Levy and I started working with the planners of the 2013 LWVC Convention. What a choice venue! Sixteen acres of loveliness. Great conference center. Terrific food. Free parking. And wi-fi everywhere!

The large and airy rooms of this 62-room Mediterranean Revival style villa, built in 1905, are beautifully decorated with fine craftsmanship, imported marble and exotic woods, and even ornate stained glass windows.

In the coming months, Mary Jo and I will keep you updated on what volunteer jobs are available. Meanwhile, please mark your calendars with May 17-19, and plan to be there!

LWVC Initiative and Referendum Process Update Study

Are Ballot Initiative Reforms Needed?

In 1911, led by newly elected Governor Hiram Johnson, Californians chose to have a direct say in what laws they wanted enacted. Since that time, voters have approved roughly one-third of all qualified ballot initiatives. Our recent election was an exception, when five of the eleven measures were approved.

Most Californians are happy not to have to decipher and decide “yes” or “no” on what can be complex ballot initiatives until November 2014. “Direct Democracy” exacts a toll on all conscientious voters.

Recognizing that changes should be made to the way measures qualify for the ballot, State League members approved a study and arrived at a consensus in 1984. Fifteen years later consensus was reached on an update to our original study. And in response to member requests, the May 2011 State Convention approved another study to further update our position.

League is not alone in desiring changes in the way ballot initiatives, often referred to as the Fourth Branch of Government, are presented to voters. The Center for Governmental Studies published Democracy by Initiative in 2008, covering every aspect of the process with suggestions of its own.

Think back to our November ballot’s Proposition 31, called State Budget, State and Local Government. It outlined seven distinct changes that would occur to certain responsibilities of counties, other local governments, the legislature and the governor, if approved. Voters were expected to vote either “yes” or “no” on this complex measure. Even though some of its provisions had merit, the measure was defeated.

This past October, the Public Policy Institute of California found that most likely voters say that the initiative process is in need of change: 40% say major changes are needed, 30% say minor changes are needed, and 23% say the process is fine the way it is.

The survey showed overwhelming support for two initiative reform proposals:

- 1) Having a period of time in which the initiative sponsor and the legislature could meet to see if there is a compromise solution before the initiative goes on the ballot: favored by 79% of likely voters; opposed by 17%.
- 2) Increasing public disclosure of funding sources for signature gathering and initiative campaigns: favored by 84% of likely voters; opposed by 12%.

It’s not too late to join our LWVPA study to learn about the mechanics of ballot measures and referendums. Members of the study committee include Joyce Tavrow, chair, Rosalie Lefkowitz, Julie Barney, Nancy Olson, Mary Alice Thornton, Doris Petersen and Gretchen Hillard. Contact Joyce Tavrow if you want to join the study.

Our next meeting will be on Wednesday, December 5, from 1:30 - 3:30 pm, in the club room at Moldaw Residences, 899 E. Charleston Rd. Another study meeting will be held in February, and the consensus meeting is scheduled for Saturday, March 2 at 9:30 am. The date, time and location of the February meeting and location of the March meeting will appear in the February VOTER to arrive in mid-January.

For additional information about the study go to <http://archive.lwvc.org/lwvonly/> and scroll down to the Initiative and Referendum study.

We are saddened by the passing of Ellen Fletcher, a truly amazing woman who contributed so much to our community as a member of the City Council and a tireless advocate for bicycling.

Alice Smith writes: “Ellen Fletcher was a woman of foresight. She used the bicycle, even when suffering from debilitating cancer, she fought resolutely to retain Palo Alto as a livable place, starting with her efforts to not ‘Los Angelize’ Palo Alto. She was a survivor of Nazi Germany, via the Kindertransport to England. She was remarkable in her progressive actions. She will be missed.”

Advocacy Report

LWV BAY AREA: The LWVBA sent a letter to the Metropolitan Commission on November 21, objecting to the transfer of $20 million of funds from the regional agency to county Congestion Management Agencies. The letter, signed by Marion Taylor, LWVBA president, states that the presentation and action offered no opportunity for public scrutiny, deliberation and comment, was not subject to review by the Commission's advisory committees and is a possible violation of the Brown Act. http://www.lwvbayarea.org/files/nov_21_to_mtc_1_.pdf

LWVPA: The City of Palo Alto Draft Housing Element was returned, as expected, from the CA Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) with required changes. In particular: (1) The City was not allowed to count hotel condominiums as housing units as they do not have complete kitchens. (2) The City must create zoning that will allow building of 100 plus temporary housing beds as a right. The City is considering creating an overlay zone. (3) HCD wants the City to provide incentives for lot combining. Palo Alto had counted a large number of small lots in its potential number of units to be developed in this round of the Element. The City needs to have an approved Housing Element by Spring 2013; otherwise it may lose State transportation dollars. The City has been assigned 2170 more housing units for the next housing cycle starting in 2014. Remember, the City must zone for these units, not build them.

Buena Vista Mobile Home Park: As reported in the press, residents of this very low-income community have received eviction notices. The residents have sought and are receiving advice on how to proceed. The LWVPA Housing Committee is following the issue. Both the loss of housing and community for these families and the permanent loss of these low-income housing units are a major concern.

San Francisquito Creek Joint Powers Association received one more needed approval on November 13, this time from the City of Palo Alto, of a site and design proposal for the lands along the creek east of Highway 101. The EIR has already been approved by the Joint Powers Board. This segment of the creek will be repaired before any improvements upstream. The goal is to provide 100-year flood protection including adjustments for the rising sea level.

LWVUS UNITED NATIONS OBSERVERS

In 1945, at the UN Charter Conference, the League of Women Voters was invited by President Harry Truman to serve as a consultant to the U.S. delegation. Since that time, the League has continued its presence at the United Nations through its one official and four alternate observers. In July 1997, the League was granted Special Consultative Status with the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), which provides the opportunity to make interventions on issues the League supports. Consultative status allows the League to make formal oral or written statements to the UN and to be consulted by the UN in areas which the League has expertise.

The current UN Observers for the League are:

Rosalee Keech, U.N. Observer. Rosalee has been a member for more than 10 years. At the UN she serves on the NGO Working Group on Girls and serves as co-chair for its task force to prevent violence against women and girls. Her focus at the UN is to promote the democratic process and the prevention of violence.

Suzanne Maltz, First Alternate Observer. Suzie has been involved with different Leagues in a leadership capacity for many years. At the UN she enjoys working on issues relating to women and democracy and attends the meetings and briefings of the Department of Public Information Nongovernmental Organizations (UN-DPI).

Margery Cohen, Alternate Observer. Margery became an alternative observer at the UN in 1987 and full UN Observer in 1990. Margery works for the human rights of women and girls.

Mary Fox, Alternate Observer. Mary is a member of the League of New Castle, NY, where she has served in a variety of positions. Her focus at the UN is environmental sustainability and issues surrounding aging. She serves on the NGO Committee on the Aging.

Nancy Lyman Orem, Alternate Observer. Nancy's work at the UN is climate change and environmental sustainability.
